

GIRL STRIVES TO SAVE FATHER IN COURT

INDIANA FARMER CHARGED WITH MURDER IS ASSISTED BY DEVOTED CHILD

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 11.—Not for many years has a murder trial caused so great a sensation and attracted such general interest in this section of the state as the trial to begin here in the Tippecanoe circuit court next Monday, of John W. Poole, a prosperous Benton county farmer, who is charged with having murdered Joseph Kemper, one of his German farmhands, in December 1909. It is not morbid curiosity alone or a desire to have an opportunity to listen to the revolting details of a brutal crime that cause this general interest. The feature which more than any other appeals to the heart and sympathy of the people is the brave fight which Grace Poole, the daughter of the accused man, is making, to save her father from the gallows.

Grace Poole alone of all the members of the Poole family stands by her father and, out of her meager earnings as teacher in the Wheatfield public school, defrays the cost of defending her father in the coming trial. Poole's wife and his other daughter have turned against him and have absolutely refused to contribute to the fund for Poole's defense. His son, Emory Poole, who has been the prime accuser of his father and has left literally no stone unturned to find evidence against the old man, continues to maintain his attitude of extreme hostility and has openly declared that he would not rest until his father had been hanged.

John W. Poole was one of the most substantial men in Benton county. He owned several prosperous farms but, owing to some financial trouble a few years ago, he transferred the title to his property to his wife, Joseph Kemper, with whose murder Poole is charged, worked for Poole during the summer and fall of 1909. He was last seen alive on December 10 or 12, 1909 and since then every trace of him was lost. It was supposed that he had left the farm to find work in the lumber camps of Michigan.

Nobody suspected that Kemper had been murdered, until Poole's son, Emory, informed the authorities of his belief that his father had killed Kemper and buried his body somewhere on the farm. The older Poole was arrested on March 18, 1911 and charged with the murder of Kemper, but he was discharged on the same day, because there was absolutely no evidence against him at that time beyond the mere accusation of Emory Poole.

Young Poole, apparently convinced that his suspicion was well founded and determined to find the necessary proofs for the guilt of his father, continued to search for Kemper's body, exploring every part of the grounds with that object in view. His perseverance was apparently rewarded. In the middle of a big corn field, about half a mile from the Poole homestead, young Poole found the decomposed remains of a human body, mingled with the remains of a hog's carcass. He notified the authorities and, although the remains of the human body were far beyond identification, insisted upon his charge that the body was that of Joseph Kemper, whom he accused of having murdered.

John W. Poole was again arrested and brought to Fowler, Ind., where he was arraigned before Justice L. B. Stephenson on May 4 last. The charge was preferred by Emory Poole who submitted practically all the evidence. Poole pleaded not guilty and was held to the grand jury without bail on a charge of murder. In due course of time he was indicted and his trial was set for next Monday.

Although Poole continued to maintain his innocence of having committed intentional murder, he is said to have confessed that he accidentally shot and killed Kemper and then buried his body for fear of the consequence of his deed. Poole, it is said, claims that while he climbed over the fence of his orchard to hunt rabbits, his shotgun was accidentally discharged and the full load struck Kemper in the head at close range, killing him instantly.

Elmore Barce has been engaged to defend Poole and it is believed that he will make a plea of insanity for his client. Fifteen years ago Poole was tried for having tried to shoot a man named Quidley. The jury decided, however, that Poole was insane and he was sent to an asylum in Indianapolis, where he remained several years.

Grace Poole, the prisoner's young daughter, came near losing her position as teacher in the Wheatfield public school where she has been doing good work for several years. Many of the parents objected to her because her father had been accused of murder, but the brave girl called a meeting of the parents and won their sympathy and support when she explained to them that it would be impossible for her to help her father should she be deprived of her position.

NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, Nov. 11.—The return of President Taft to Washington after an absence of two months will be the signal for a reawakening of official life and political activity in the national capital. Though congress will not meet for several weeks many of the members will be here for meetings of various commissions and official investigations. The president will begin work in earnest on his annual message and political leaders will drop in to consult with him concerning the preliminary work of the approaching campaign, which it is generally agreed is to have an earlier beginning next year than is usually the case.

The progress of events in Tripoli and of the revolutionary movement in China, together with the McNamara trial in Los Angeles, may still be counted on to furnish first page stories.

The first session of Canada's newly elected twelfth parliament will open Wednesday. The proceedings on the first day will be purely formal of a routine character. The ceremonial opening by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught will take place Thursday and promises to be an event of exceptional brilliancy. The duration of the parliamentary session and the extent and character of the business to be transacted are largely problematical.

Among the important gatherings of the week will be the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, at Atlanta; the annual convention of the American Road Builders' association at Rochester; the meeting of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress, at Kansas City; the convention of the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality, at Chicago, and the convention and exhibition of the American Apple congress, in Denver.

Other events of more or less interest and importance will be the annual banquet of the Canadian club of New York, the dedication of the Massachusetts monuments on Peterborough battlefield and at Valley Forge, the United States Land and Irrigation exposition in Chicago, the opening of the National Horse Show in New York, and the football games between Yale and Princeton, Michigan and Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin and Minnesota universities.

COLDS VANISH

Quick, Sensible Method That Doesn't Upset the Stomach

Have you heard of the overnight cold cure that is putting colds in the head and chest out of business between sunset and daybreak?

Here it is. Cut it out and save it if you don't need it now. If you have a cold, cough, throat soreness or acute catarrh, be sure and try it tonight just before going to bed. Four a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises, then go to sleep and awake with a clear head from mucus.

HYOMEI is guaranteed for catarrh, colds, coughs, croup, asthma, sore throat and bronchitis, or money back. Bottle of Hyomei 50 cents at E. G. Murphy's and druggists everywhere.

NEW LONDON OPERA HOUSE

London, Nov. 11.—Monday night next, with the opening of his new London opera house, the irrepressible Oscar Hammerstein will enter upon his career as a manager of grand opera in the British metropolis. Whatever the artistic or financial success of the undertaking may be, it is certain that Mr. Hammerstein has given to London one of the finest and best equipped theatres in the world. Designed and completed in 12 months, the magnificent structure in Kingsway is a model opera house in every respect, and if thoroughness and attention to every requirement mean success, the New Yorker is going to be eminently successful.

The opera house will accommodate 2,700 persons. It contains 43 boxes, including a handsome suite for the use of the king. The stage measures 90 feet by 60 feet, and is specially constructed with a view to magnificent spectacular effects. As in the Paris houses, there are saloons, lounges, and foyers for every part of the house. The entrance hall is of unusual size, and surrounded by a peristyle of Corinthian columns, the special feature of the frontage being the central window, 40 feet in height. Statues illustrative of music and art stand up on the corners, and each end of the building is crowned with classic statuary.

Among the operas selected for production the opening week are "Norma," "William Tell" and "Quo Vadis." Among the principals in the casts will be Maurice Renaud, Orville Harrold, who makes his London debut on this occasion; Alice Villardi, a favorite of the Paris opera house, comique, and Nina Patti, who comes from the Paris Gaitey.

TEMPERATURE BELOW THE NORMAL

OCTOBER, ACCORDING TO WEATHER BUREAU, WAS COLD AND UNUSUALLY WET.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 11.—The month of October, 1911, averaged considerably below the normal in temperature, and much above in precipitation. The deficiency in temperature was general, with the exception of the southern half of Eddy, and in Dona Ana and southeast Luna counties, where a slight excess occurred. The deficiency exceeded three degrees a day in Santa Fe, northern Colfax and northeast Rio Arriba counties, and two degrees a day in central San Miguel and Mora, Guadalupe, Chavez, Bernalillo and northeast Socorro counties, also south central Grant. Warm weather prevailed at the beginning of the month and continued to the fifth; a second warm period occurred from the tenth to the fifteenth, and a third on the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth, while cool periods occurred from the sixth to the ninth, sixteenth to twenty-second and twenty-sixth to the close of the month. The second was generally the warmest day, and the twenty-first or twenty-second were the coldest, although the twenty-eighth was also a day that averaged cold, because of even cool weather at that time. A few of the higher northern stations had a killing frost on the sixth, seventh or eighth, but generally killing frost did not occur over the northern counties until the sixteenth and over the central and southern until the twenty-second, giving a long season.

The precipitation of the month was generally in excess of the normal, except in the lower Rio Grande and the lower Pecos valleys, and at a few scattered stations in the eastern counties. The average for the territory was the greatest of record, with the exception of October, 1896, when the average was 3.65 inches. An excess of more than two inches occurred in eastern Valencia, Bernalillo, Santa Fe, Sandoval, Rio Arriba, Taos, western and northern Colfax, extreme western Mora and San Miguel, northern Grant and western Socorro counties. The precipitation over the middle and upper Rio Grande valley and the San Juan valley was exceptionally heavy, causing disastrous floods and very serious and extensive property losses, and some loss of life.

Three well defined rain periods occurred; the first, from the fourth to sixth; the second, from the evening of the nineteenth to the morning of the twenty-first; and the third, from the twenty-sixth to the twenty-ninth. Heavy snow occurred over the northern mountains on the nineteenth to twenty-first and twenty-sixth to twenty-ninth. Over the lower levels it disappeared rapidly and the ground was generally bare at the close of the month, but in the higher mountains there remained from a foot in the more exposed places to three or four feet in the timber and gulches.

The sunshine of the month was large, although not above the normal for the month. The period from the sixth to the twenty-fifth was practically without cloudiness, save for the brief storm period from the eleventh to twenty-first. There is 77 per cent of the total possible sunshine at Roswell, and 72 per cent at Santa Fe, while for the territory, as a whole there were 20 clear, six partly cloudy and five cloudy days. The winds were prevailing westerly and light, as a rule, although a few wind and dust storms occurred over the drier southern and eastern counties. Fog occurred at many stations during the last week of the month.

Temperature.

The average temperature for the territory, determined from the records of 70 stations having a mean altitude of about 5,000 feet, was 52.1 degrees, or 1.4 degrees below the normal, and 1.8 degrees below October, 1910. The highest monthly mean temperature was 63.7 degrees at Carlsbad, and the lowest 39.1 degrees at Elizabethtown, while the highest recorded temperature was 97 degrees at Carlsbad on the third, and the lowest 1 degree below zero at Elizabethtown and Vermejo Park on the twenty-first. The greatest local monthly range of temperature was 30 degrees at Vermejo Park, and the least, 29 degrees, at Rosinda (although the latter is for a part of the month), while the greatest local daily range was 60 degrees at Knowles on the twenty-fourth. The district averages were as follows: No. 7 (Canadian and Northeast), 51.5 degrees; No. 8 (Pecos and Rio Grande), 52.1 degrees; No. 9 (Western), 53.0 degrees.

Precipitation.

The average for the territory, determined from the records of 141 stations, was 2.16 inches, or 1.06 inches above the normal, and 1.44 inches greater than October, 1910. The greatest monthly amount was 6.86 inches at Harvey's Upper ranch, and the least, 0.15 inch, at Chambray. The greatest in any 24 hours was 3.56 inches at Chacon, closely followed by 3.45 at Alamos ranch and by 3.20 at Jemez Springs, all in the great down-pour of the fourth and fifth. Snow did not occur at many stations below the central part of the territory, yet because of the heavy fall in northern counties the average for the territory was 3.9 inches. The average number of days with 0.01 inch or more precipitation was 5. The district averages were practically that of the territory as a whole.

ENDS INDIGESTION IN A FEW MOMENTS

Gas, Heartburn, Sourness and all
Misery in Stomach Vanishes

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes. If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Diapiesin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headache or stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapiesin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. There is nothing better for gas on the stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a stomach headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

CANADIAN CLUB BANQUET

New York, Nov. 11.—The Canadian Club of New York is to hold its annual banquet at the Hotel Astor next Monday night and as it will be the first dinner of this representative Canadian organization since the defeat of reciprocity, much interest is being shown as to the prospective utterances of the distinguished Canadians and Americans who will address the club. The new cabinet at Ottawa will be represented by the Hon. George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce. Other Canadian speakers will be Robert A. Falconer, of Toronto, C. P. Brannen, of Montreal, the Right Rev. Frederick Courtney, former bishop of Nova Scotia; Judge D. B. Macdavid of Ottawa, and C. R. McCullough, honorary president of the Association of Canadian clubs.

Warden's Singing Powerful.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Friends of Warden Edward Lewis of the Allegheny county jail, say he is a great singer, and he does not deny it himself, but the other afternoon a prisoner threw a gospel hymn at the weekly religious service in the jail, and now Lewis is in a troubled frame of mind.

The warden had finished the first stanza and his resonant voice had started the opening words of the second, when John Rampola, a short-term man, enthralled by the appealing sentiment of the song and its feeling rendition, went into convulsions. He may recover. Lewis did not finish the hymn.

Preserving Time.

Spiced grapes are nice for children's school lunches by and by. Plums preserved not too richly make a tart and excellent winter fruit.

Before grapes get too ripe is the best time to make jelly. Peaches which are too green make a very poor canned product. Yellow tomatoes, with lemon stewed down rich and thick, are liked in many families.

The queen of fruits for some purposes, the quince, will soon be in market.

SOCIETY RUINING THE MODERN DANCE

"TURKEY TROT" AND "BUNNY HUG" HAVE DRIVEN OUT TWO-STEP AND WLATZ.

New York, Nov. 11.—"How can we expect to arrive at a decent standard for dancing when we read in the daily press throughout the country the reports of what the so-called smart set is dancing at Newport? We read that they have adopted the 'turkey trot' and the 'bunny hug,' and that these suggestive dances have been given at the homes of some of the leaders of the colony."

These comments and many others were made by Mrs. Charles H. Isaacs before a meeting of the Neighborhood Workers association at Greenwich House yesterday in a discussion relative to bettering the conditions of dance halls in this city. "What can we expect?" said Mrs. Isaacs, "when the so-called leading people are so eager to set a wrong standard of dancing? And how can we go to the owners of decent dance halls in this city and ask them to co-operate with us, when they tell us that Mayor Gaynor has exercised his discretion over the bureau of licenses and allowed the notorious Haymarket Dance hall to reopen?"

"One of the solutions we believe most effective is to teach people how to dance correctly," she said. "When girls learn the regular social dances—the waltz and the two-step—they are averse to the vulgar dances like the 'shadow dance,' 'turkey trot,' 'nigger,' 'shiver dance' and the 'bunny hug.' Many of those addicted to these dances have told us that they knew no other, and that they had been given to understand that these dances were approved by the well-to-do. The only answer is to educate the girls in the right way of dancing."

BEN McCULLOUGH CENTENARY
Murfreesboro, Tenn., Nov. 11.—One hundred years ago today saw the birth in this county of the redoubtable Ben McCullough, whose exploits as an Indian fighter and soldier of fortune rivaled the stirring deeds of Davy Crockett and other famous western pioneers. McCullough fought under three flags. In his youth he followed the Stars and Stripes into battle against the Indians. Later, at the battle of San Jacinto, he fought side by side with Sam Houston for the "Lone Star" flag of the Texas republic. At the outbreak of the civil war he joined the Confederates. He was commissioned brigadier general and was killed while fighting under the stars and bars at the battle of Pea Ridge.
